

LIVELY AQUATIC SPORT AT OPENING OF NEW PUBLIC POOL

R. Edgren's
COLUMN

STATE agricultural societies—farmers, of course, composing the membership, but every man a peculiar power in his way—have now to be reckoned with by the race track magnates. Gov. Hughes in his pronounced determination to stop betting on horse races has personally appealed to the farmer to support him, and already there have been responses which at least have made the State Executive feel reasonably secure in the position he has taken against race track betting. Contrary to the former opinion of the State to control racing in this State, the farmer already in the first flight of his opinion in advocacy of the Gubernatorial

In action, without having them served up in their street clothes and sweaters. They consume a lot of valuable time.

TALKING of Willie Fitzgerald, the question forces itself—why don't some of the alleged fighters take him on? Fitzgerald is as much of a lightweight as any of them. He says he can make 133 pounds, but wants time in which to do it. McFarland, Nelson, Murphy, Baldwin and the rest of them carefully steer clear of Fitzgerald's name when they talk fight. Meanwhile Fitz has to take on welters or quits the business.

AS a fighter, Sailor Brown, who appeared in the ring against Willie Lewis last night, is a joke. He tied his arms around his face bow-knot fashion, so that Lewis could not land on him effectively. Lewis was as much disgusted as the spectators at the tactics of his alleged opponent. Too bad the fight for the title to stand for masqueraders and burlesque performers like this particular ex-sailor.

1,000 Spectators Turn Out at Opening of the New Public Pool.

BY ROZEMAN BULGER

A CROWD of 1,000 or more packed into the new public pool at Avenue A and Twenty-third street last night to see the east side tale its plunge into the tank, but C. M. Danforth, the manager, said it was to be the whole show and the spectators got a large view of the bath. A lot of folk went over there to see the kids take a few splashes in the indoor brook, but the kids weren't there. The grown-ups did the initiating and there were a lot of them that said the kids were filled with hare legs and before the real sport started the pool was running over.

It was an enthusiastic opening of one of New York's greatest public institutions, and hundreds of people had to be turned away because not another nose could be stuck in the air. The water backed around the sides of the tank

The flocks of sea birds. The first experience in the bald head row put them wise, however, and the next time rain coats will be the official garb. The umbrellas man could have done a rushing business last night. Very few persons left the pool without being able to boast of having had a bath. The water, which was splashed in every direction, ran down the neck in chilling streams, and involuntary foot baths came every ten minutes.

Just for a little pastime Daniels gave one of his customary record-breaking performances, and while taking things easy he smashed two and winged another in his first game in 143 seconds, against a 2:12 1/2 record made at St. Louis, and in the 20 yards he hung up a mark of 2:36 2/5, against a 2:15 2/5, his

President of League Says Association Must Back Down on "Black-List" Resolution.

"UNLESS the National Association of Professional League rescinds the unjust, un-American and ultra-Russian resolution that they passed in October 1, will resign my position as President of the National League."

President Pulliam made this declaration yesterday, and says he will stick to it.

"The controversy has now reached the point where the National Association must back down or Pulliam must quit his job."

Pulliam says he will stand or fall by organization, and reiterated the statement on the signature of E. E. Munn, former President of the New England League, and a member of the National Board of Arbitration of the National Association, that it has the power to define the status of ball players as well as enforce the right of club owners to sell players.

The National Commission has not yet stated four men were on the "hellish" list: umpire, contractor, manager, Huston, Campbell and Miller. Four ages are there, back to 1870. Huston is believed to play with a "organized" team, the colorists (over meaning Huston), and the other three are handicapped and barred from the National Association.

In conclusion I note that P. T. Powers takes great satisfaction in publishing broadcast statements from National August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission, in which Mr. Herrmann defended his (Powers's) position. That fact does not surprise me, notwithstanding that I have three letters from Mr. Herrmann written in November after the signing of a National Association, in which he says over his signature that the action of the National Commission was unwarranted and would not be allowed to go unopposed by the National Commission.

The issue is now joined. It is up to the powers that be to make the decision. I realize full well that my position is not secure, because I have offended those who sit in the seats of the mighty. If I go down in defeat, I shall resign from my position. I have served faithfully for fourteen years without regret.

mer record. At that he didn't want their race, because they had a rule which didn't allow him to start until the others were half through or thereabouts. Incidentally, they say the new records will not be allowed as the watchmen were at the end of the track instead of on the side at the finish line.

Some proceeds until one side has outdone the other.

Hereafter the kids are going to have the right of way and get up some games of their own.

When the fun was over last night James E. Sullivan said that these public pools would work wonders in de-

Under Record. At the he didn't want to make any more money, they had a ride and didn't believe in it. The others were half through or thereabouts, and he was still in the lead. The others will not be allowed to see the match-riders were at the end of the race, and he was still in the lead. But that didn't make any difference to the crowd, because they didn't know he was there. They saw him because they saw him do it any way.

But they sprang one new over the top, and he went right over the top. He saw a tilting match on the top, and he saw a tilting match on the top. If you didn't want must come out of the top, and he went right over the top. They ride horses made out of barrels, and the riders light each other with the hand-held rings just like those used in polo to scan up the kitchen. The contestants of the Jack Wallpiper race are in the neck and knocking him off the horse. He must be rendered unconscious, which is one Ray of the show. It takes a drinking, for the other boys to win.

When the horse entered last night, the Sam Robber and Hunting Water. The hunter's mount got unsteady at the start, and the hunter was at his feeding adversary. His mop got tangled in the grass, and but for the fact that the hunter was in the saddle, he would have proceeded until one side has out-tracked the other.

Hereafter the riders are going to have the right of way and get up some of their own.

When the fair was over last night James E. Sullivan said that these public pools would show wonders in developing a lot of good swimmers in America. You know," said Mr. Sullivan, "the children are afraid of the swimming, and the installation of the public swimming pools is going to help teach her."

JACK "TWIN" PICKER

Sully Rules Favorite Over Thomas at Odds of 10 to 9.

BY JOHN POLLOCK.

ALTHOUGH the fight fans of California have always regarded Joe Thomas as one of the cleverest big fellows for a limited number of rounds that they have ever seen in action, the majority of them seem to think that Joe is going out of his class tonight to meet Jack "Twin" Sullivan. As a result they have made the under the favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 9. Sullivan seems to think he will have a clinch with Thomas, and has already wagered $100 on his chances of beating him. As no decisions are rendered, the money will er's failure in the past. He fell over the edge of the cliff and swallowed two gallons of salt water just as he was about to see Oberweis's well-played favorite, and he slipped out of his historical demonstrations by getting out of his pants. Running Water pulled up his knee.

Water Polo Made a Hit.

The erstwhile saw its first fame as a water polo, and that's where everybody got it. The idea was to have a bunch of picked stars, or rather picked brains, if you can remember the name, and have them go out and get a mother-in-law in a thing to give you a little sponge, and all over the sponge was all over your face, then you've got to have the principle of water polo. Strictly, it was a game of water polo, and a ball on a big ship which has the most of the opponents to be picked out, but the main idea is to rub the ball in your face, so he can't see what you are doing, so he can't get you. The game consists of catching a fellow, and then you have to have him under the water until he has a big ball under the ball. The next man who gets it is the next man, and this is the

The finesse of the game consists in getting a fellow round the neck and holding him up until he has to turn loose he tell. The most men who gets it is treated to the same dose, and runs the Columbia Team Won.

The Fairmount basketball team were defeated last night by the Columbia team by a score of 21 to 7. The game was played in the local gymnasium, and the Blue and white team entirely outclassed their opponents.

Madden to Race Abroad.

John E. Madden, one of America's most successful turf men, may not be seen on the local tracks next season. It is reported that he will race his horses in England and repertoire on Sallor Brown at the stag of the 'My Dock A. C. last night, but could not get one over that would keep the extra-day down long enough for the referee to decide him a winner by a knock-out.

Brown is a worthy successor of Joe Grim as a punching bag, and as the original sailor knot, he tied himself into such a variety of shapes that it would take a windlass to unwind him.

In the first two rounds Brown made an attempt to fight and was being badly whipped. In the second round Lewis crossed him with a right and he took the full count. He arose groggy and was sent to the mat again. As the referee called for the going rang and he was helped to his corner. This happened again in the third season when Lewis whinned over a right that
